THE SWEET SINGERS OF WISCONSIN

The Sweet Singers of Wisconsin, Will Make Their Voices Heard in The Land.

Progress of the Convention—Reception of the Visitors—Last Evening.

This afternoon the Wisconsin Musical Association changed its headquarters. Instead of meeting in the Sunday school room, its members were gathered upon the big stage that has been built in the church proper.

Here, rehearsals were carried on with piano and organ accompaniment. The evening notes of the organ blended with the choruses most admirably and lent to Hayden's wonderful oratorio new grandeur. Members of the Creation occupied most of the afternoon. In the forenoon there were several rehearsals of the Hymn of Praise.

Many singers from Fond du Lac, Waupun and other Wisconsin cities arrived last night and this morning. Others are expected to-morrow. To take part in the grand concert. It is urged that all the Janesville singers who can do so will attend the various sessions of the convention. Much of the meeting will depend upon the spirit in which the work is taken upon by the local musicians, who have already made Janesville's reputation in musical circles an enviable one.

Last evening the visiting singers were addressed by President G. K. Colling. Mr. Colling's remarks which were received with evident appreciation were as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Had I known that I was expected to deliver an address I should have hesitated about accepting the office of president, for I never delivered an address in my life, and I trust you will be charitable to me.

If you will kindly give me your attention I will not detain you long for I believe in action rather than mere speaking. You are aware that the object of the convention is for the improvement of the work in the cultivation of musical taste. Music is such a sublime and great, and there has so much been said and written about it by so many able persons, that I scarcely know where to begin or what to say. It is such a great thing and so much to be enjoyed and I might say blessing to be enjoyed by the cultivation of music that I have often wondered that it didn't form a part of our public school education. It is so strange that a subject which is so capable of exalting the human passions to such an extent as to make a person in one minute laugh and the next minute weep, should be so neglected in our schools. It is a subject which is so capable of exalting the human passions to such an extent as to make a person in one minute laugh and the next minute weep, should be so neglected in our schools.

Shane-as-Lawn has already been presented in Janesville and has met with hearty endorsement. Mr. Scanlan is, of course, the attraction, and with him is the secondary matter; but Shane-as-Lawn is, nevertheless one of the best of Irish plays. It is a simple story, well told, and abounding in bright dialogue.

Scanlan, himself, seems more pleasing than ever. He acts his part with a rollicking abandon that isimitable; while his songs would form the feature of any performance in which he might take part. He has added some new ones to his new repertoire, which now includes the following of his own compositions: "Scanlan's Rose Song," "Remember Boy You're Irish," "Come Along My Darlin'," "Peggy O'Moore," "Why Paddy is Always Poor," "Gathering the Myrtle with Mary," and the old standard, "Peek-a-Boo."

NARROWLY MISSED DEATH.

An Entire Family Nearly Escaped Cremation.

The home of A. Cadwell near this city was destroyed by fire Monday night. Mr. Cadwell was awakened by the sound of a fall, and saw that one side of the house was already in flames. He barely had time to awaken his family and get them to a place of safety before the walls of the building fell. Nothing was saved from the house with the exception of one or two pieces of parlor furniture.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It is believed, however, to have been in the sitting room where sparks might have fallen upon the carpet from an open fire place. There was no insurance.

Finding Fire in the Veins.

We found positive proof that Acker's Eucalypti Balm cures all blood poisons where cheap preparations and so-called purifiers fail. Know this, we will sell it to all who call at our store on a positive guarantee. Prentiss & Evanson, druggists.

A LOVE OF A BONNET.

Love is supposed to be an affair of the heart and when you hear a lady describe a bonnet with the above short but comprehensive sentence it indicates two things. First, an affection for a nice hat, and second, a hat worthy of admiration. The Gazette is pleased to announce that Mrs. Sadler has in stock at the present time enough hats of this description to absorb the affection of a good many ladies. So if your husband is indifferent or your lover a little disinterested in his sympathies, go in to Mrs. Sadler's and lavish a little affection on the loveliest line of hats and bonnets ever exhibited at a Janesville store. Mrs. Sadler has just returned from the market and her store is filled with choice goods. Every lady in the city and county will be interested in the styles and prices.

Strains and external injuries are the chief causes of weak ankles and joints. By the free use of Sutherland's Ointment will be effected in a short time.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 28 degrees above zero. Clear with east wind.

At one o'clock p. m. the register was 38 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with southeast wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 45 and 56 degrees above zero.

SUTHERLAND'S ACTION BALM.

The best balm in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, lacerations, swellings, sprains, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect relief, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by F. Sherer & Co.

RUSSELL'S NEW PLAY.

Something About the Comedian's Method of Work.

ROD SMITH RUSSELL.

"No," said Mr. Lloyd Brezzer, the Michigan journalist who is taking a rest from newspaper work and traveling with his brother-in-law, Manager Fred G. Berger. "No, Russell is not going to retire from the stage, although he meant it when he said he should two years ago. He lives in Minneapolis, you know, where he owns a great deal of property including a magnificent home. He intended to settle down to a manufacturing business there but his friends finally persuaded him that he could not afford to lose the benefit of a quarter of a century's work on the stage and a reputation which was bringing him in from $40,000 to $50,000 a year, and he will without a doubt continue in the profession and succeed to the position which Joseph Jefferson will leave vacant when the certain drops on that great artist for the first time. Mr. Russell is very naturally proud of the place he has won in the hearts of the public. He has climbed to the top round of the comedy side of the histrionic ladder by appealing to the intelligence and culture of his audiences. There is nothing of the clown or the buffoon about Russell. His new play, 'A Poor Relation,' which he is to produce here, will show this quality in a new light. While the new comedy is a masterpiece of wit and humor, it is a comedy and a comedy is not a comedy unless it is a comedy. He is particularly the 'comic' comedian and when a lady wants to go to the theatre she always finds someone to take her.
